CONGRATULATIONS.—Most of the gentlemen whose names were on the Conservative ticket at the late election were waited upon and congratulated last night, at their respective residences, by their numerous friends in a body, and accompanied by a band of music. Mayor Latham, City Sergeant Stewart, Commonwealth's Attorney Stuart, and Councilman Shinn, and Mr. Worthington acknowledged the compliment in short, appropriate and happy responses. Messrs. Kilgour and Burke also, though not on the ticket, and not candidates, responded to calls that were made for them. At the conclusion of the speeches a sumptuous collation which had been prepared by Mr. James Coleman at the house he formerly occupied as a restaurant, on Prince street, was partaken of by the crowd and was evidently enjoyed. Many of the houses of the successful candidates were illuminated. There was a bonfire at the corner of Prince and Water streets, and blue lights were exhibited and rockets fired off in different quarters of the city.

PIONEER MILL.—We are much gratified to learn that arrangements are in progress, for again opening and running the Pioneer Mill in this place. This mill is one of the most complete and extensive in all this section of country, and it has been the great desire of this community to see it once more in operation. Should the arrangements now in progress be completed, the mill will be under the direction, we learn, of Geo. Y. Worthington, esq., one of our most intelligent and energetic merchants, who has large experience in the business and the qualifications requisite for its future success. We wish him the fullest measure of remuneration for his enterprise. Alexandria will reap the benefits of the working of the mill, as well as the proprietors.

Fortunately the thieves were scared off before they succeeded in stealing much, the most valuable article missing being a revolver belonging to Mr. S. M. Dent. The robbers opened all the doors on the first floor so as to facilitate their escape.

WATCH REPORT.—Night dark and cloudy with sprinkles of rain at intervals. There was more disorder than has occurred during any night for a long time past. A row took place near the corner of Royal and Queen streets about ten o'clock among some colored people, but none of the parties engaged in it were arrested. A disturbance occurred at Fishmarket at the house of a colored woman named Jennie Nelson, and watchmen Jones and Cozwell had to work hard and fight well to secure the arrest of the offender, a colored man named Sam Day, who had been leaving a woman. There was disturbance at a restaurant on King street, and one near the watch house, in both of which arrests were made. Many more people than usual were out on the streets, of whom several were under the influence of liquor.

RAILROAD AND MINING PROSPECTS OF VIRGINIA.—Virginia is among the first of the States to receive the impetus of the wave of immigration now rolling southward; and at this time, her material prospects are fast brightening. Travelers through the State describe a large percentage of the passenger travel on her railroad train as being composed of incoming settlers and those who are prospecting over the country with a view to purchase. Her large land holders have reversed the old policy, and are now willing, and even anxious, to sell their estates in small or large tracts, and are extending a cordial welcome to the immigrant, whether from the Northern States or from Europe. Thousands of acres of the best agricultural lands on the continent are daily changing hands, and the territory of Virginia is fast filling up with an industrious and thrifty class of people.

The mineral wealth of Virginia, although known as far back as the Revolution, is just beginning to be appreciated. The iron workers of Pennsylvania, whose ore beds are every year becoming more expensive to work, have been securing large tracts of valuable iron-bearing lands, in the region between the Blue Ridge and the Greenbrier river. There is an area of 200 miles in width by 120 in length, through the middle of which passes the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, which probably contains more iron ore than any other tract in the United States for the next twenty years. Beyond it, in the Kanawha Valley, are deposits of coal especially adapted for iron smelting and steam purposes, upon which a thousand years demand will leave scarcely an impression. The extension of the Chesapeake and Ohio Road is now building through this valley.

With her system of internal communications completed, Virginia will be able to reach with iron bands, northward, to the lumber and grains of the Lakes, Westward, to the Mississippi, with its stores of provisions, and southward, to the cotton fields of Tennessee and Arkansas. She will then be enabled to unite upon her own soil, the various elements for great agricultural and manufacturing empires, and be raised in her activity, as she is already politically, among the progressing, labor loving States. The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, which for many years received the support and aid of the State, is rapidly being completed from its termini, at the White Sulphur Springs, to the Ohio River. Upwards of 6,000 men are at work on the line. Messrs. Fisk & Hatch, the reliable Bankers of New York, who are the Financial Agents of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company, report very satisfactory sales of the Bonds, as will be seen by their announcement elsewhere, or still to be had at the same rate, and exchanges of other Securities for these Bonds are made at the best market rates.

The public, on Saturday last, were somewhat edified by the appearance of an article from Mr. B. F. Price, a venerable gentleman of great experience. Mr. Price states that he withdrew from the 31 Ward Conservative convention thinking he was one of the "elites," and he did not do so until after he allowed his name to be balloted for and the result announced.

Mr. Price states that afterwards he saw his name announced as the Republican candidate which would lead the readers of the Gazette to infer that he knew nothing whatever of his name being on the Republican ticket. I will refer the intelligent reader to the following letter from B. D. Beckley, fully endorsed by Walter L. Penn, and the reader can judge for himself whether he knew of his name in connection with the Republicans:

ALBANY, May 30, 1871

Dear Sir: You request to know the reason the names of Mr. B. F. Price and Mr. C. F. Smith were placed on the Republican ticket for Aldermen and Councilmen from the Third Ward. The reasons are as follows:

Mr. L. C. Neal and Mr. W. L. Penn stated to me and Mr. George P. Douglass that Mr. B. F. Price had promised them that if his name was placed on the ticket, he would give the Republicans a ticket for one hundred and fifty white votes from the railroad and Conservative party, who would vote the entire Republican ticket upon those conditions. I consented to add the names of these gentlemen to the ticket from the Third Ward.

On the morning of the election I for a dozen gentlemen's names on another ticket headed "Conservative," and in the hands of a railroad employee. I thought some one was acting dishonestly in the election, and it was my duty to report it to the proper authorities. I went to work and exposed the whole plan, and although I voted the entire Republican ticket without a scratch I would not have voted for the two gentlemen above mentioned had I known their names were on the Conservative ticket.

I have the honor to be, sir, yours respectfully, R. D. BECKLEY.

I endorse the first part of the within letter as being substantially true. W. L. PENN.

Although I am young in years and with moderate experience, I was always taught to respect my honor and have a principle to stand by. As the venerable gentleman of great experience has made his appearance in politics, his future success will only be warranted by his first effort. Although the venerable gentleman of great experience is only a few years my senior, he will always find that in politics "an honest man is the noblest work of God."

I could produce to the public more evidence of the complexity of the venerable gentleman of great experience, but I think already what I have said, the letter of R. D. Beckley, endorsed by W. L. Penn, is sufficient to place him in his proper position before the public. W. F. HENDERSON.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Three Requisites of Health.

It is the sickly people in the world were to attend to their bodies, and demand medical treatment, there would not be doctors enough to attend them, nor a sufficient number of the robust to nurse them. Three conditions are absolutely essential to health, viz: a good appetite or digestion, and the ability to sleep soundly.

Eighty of the many thousands who suffer from indigestion, and are not laboring under serious disease, complain that they "can't eat," that their stomachs are "out of order," or that they "don't sleep well."

For this class of ailments few persons think of calling in a physician. Nor is it necessary, inasmuch as a course of Hostetter's Stomachic will certainly relieve the derangements of the stomach, the liver and the nervous system, from which want of appetite, indigestion and sleeplessness arise. This excellent vegetable tonic and corrective is also a delightful anodyne. Insomnia or incapacity to sleep, will yield readily to a dose of this pleasant sedative taken just before retiring to rest.

In ordinary medical practice it is usual to give a stomachic, an aperient, an invigorant, a soporific, or an anesthetic, as the case for the time may seem more particularly to require; but in this grand restorative all these medicinal properties, and many others are blended in due proportion. Thus, the digestion is stimulated, while the bowels are regulated, the liver toned, the purified recruited, the nerves calmed, the fluids strengthened and the circulation equalized. It is believed that there is no other restorative and regulating medicine in the world which acts so beneficially and agreeably upon all the assimilating and secretory organs at the same time; and to all who lack the three fundamental requisites of health and enjoyment, a vigorous appetite, sound digestion, and refreshing sleep, it is confidently recommended as a specific.

Opportunities for Culture.

This country is becoming noted for the enterprise of wine growers. Near Jersey particularly, where the celebrated Port Grape Wine is made purely from the grape juice. The following letter from an eminent physician who lives in sight of Spear's vineyard, will be of interest to our readers.

Pasadena, October 10th, 1865.

I hereby certify that Mr. A. Spooner, of this village has a large vineyard of choice grape vines, which are looking very fine. He also purchases a great many grapes, not as yet produced as many himself as is required to keep his stock of wine full. He has the Port Grape, the wine of which is held in high estimation and of which he has a large quantity on hand lying in his cellars, requiring age before he disposes of it.
